

Sara Andrews

Dear Sara,
each time we see you
long time - other for a Brought as kind as you are always been, you will do all the fine. I wish you all the luck in the world.
There isn't a more deserving person.

Dear Sara,
You're one of the sweetest, most sincere persons I've ever met.
I'm sure you'll always be happy - you deserve
it.
Find a partner

Sara,
I can never forget Freeman and Christy, Phi-Kai-Ell meetings, but especially I'll always remember the words so sincerely spoken in your Valedictory Benediction. He's going to ball at the beach.
Love and best wishes,
Sam Gardner

Sara,
I've enjoyed knowing you - I'm sure you'll be happy at school - I wish it were Scott... I wish thanks for your notes and everything
Love,
Jan

Sara,
I've been thinking of you and how wonderful this year has been. I hope you're happy & you know I always get that I (what) want to be with you forever. I hope you're happy & you

Dear Sara,
I want to hope that you have a very great future, for you deserve
it. Have a good summer.
Big for now.
Love,
Jill

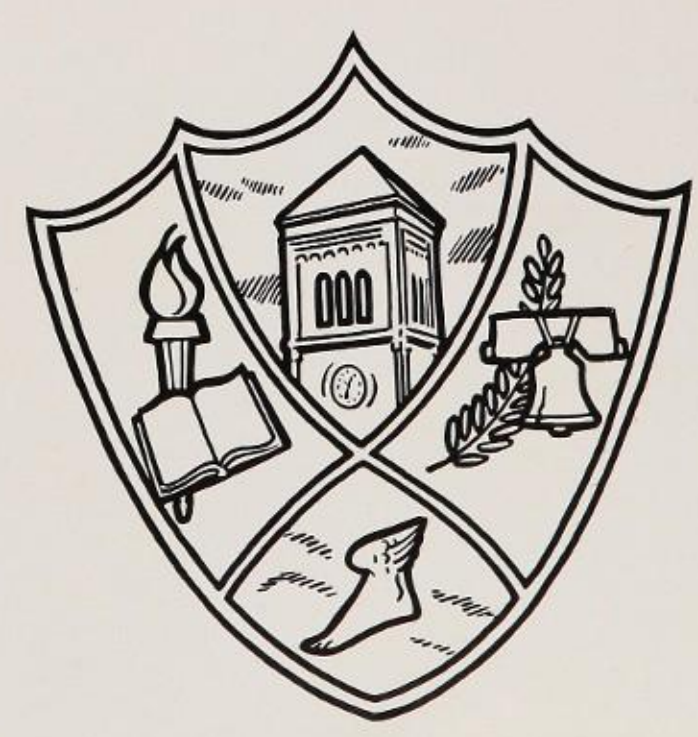

Dear Sara,
Even though I never got to know you very well, your faith in life and God has been an inspiration to me. Good luck in all that you do, and may God always be with you & bless you

ALMA MATER

Alma Mater, we salute thee
Bounteous giver hear our praise
For within thy walls we've garnered Gifts enriching all our days
Opportunity for friendship
Guidance in the quest for truth
Faith through all our grave endeavor
Understanding love of youth
These thy gifts O Alma Mater,
We shall cherish through the days
Striving still through high endeavor
Thus to render thee our praise

Sara,
I can hardly believe it's all over.
The only regret I have is that I don't know you better. It's been great though may all your wishes be granted.
Joanne Snowbridge

Sara,
I regret that I didn't get to know you sooner.
Because your such a sweet girl. Please stay like you are.
Good luck in everything you do.

Foreword

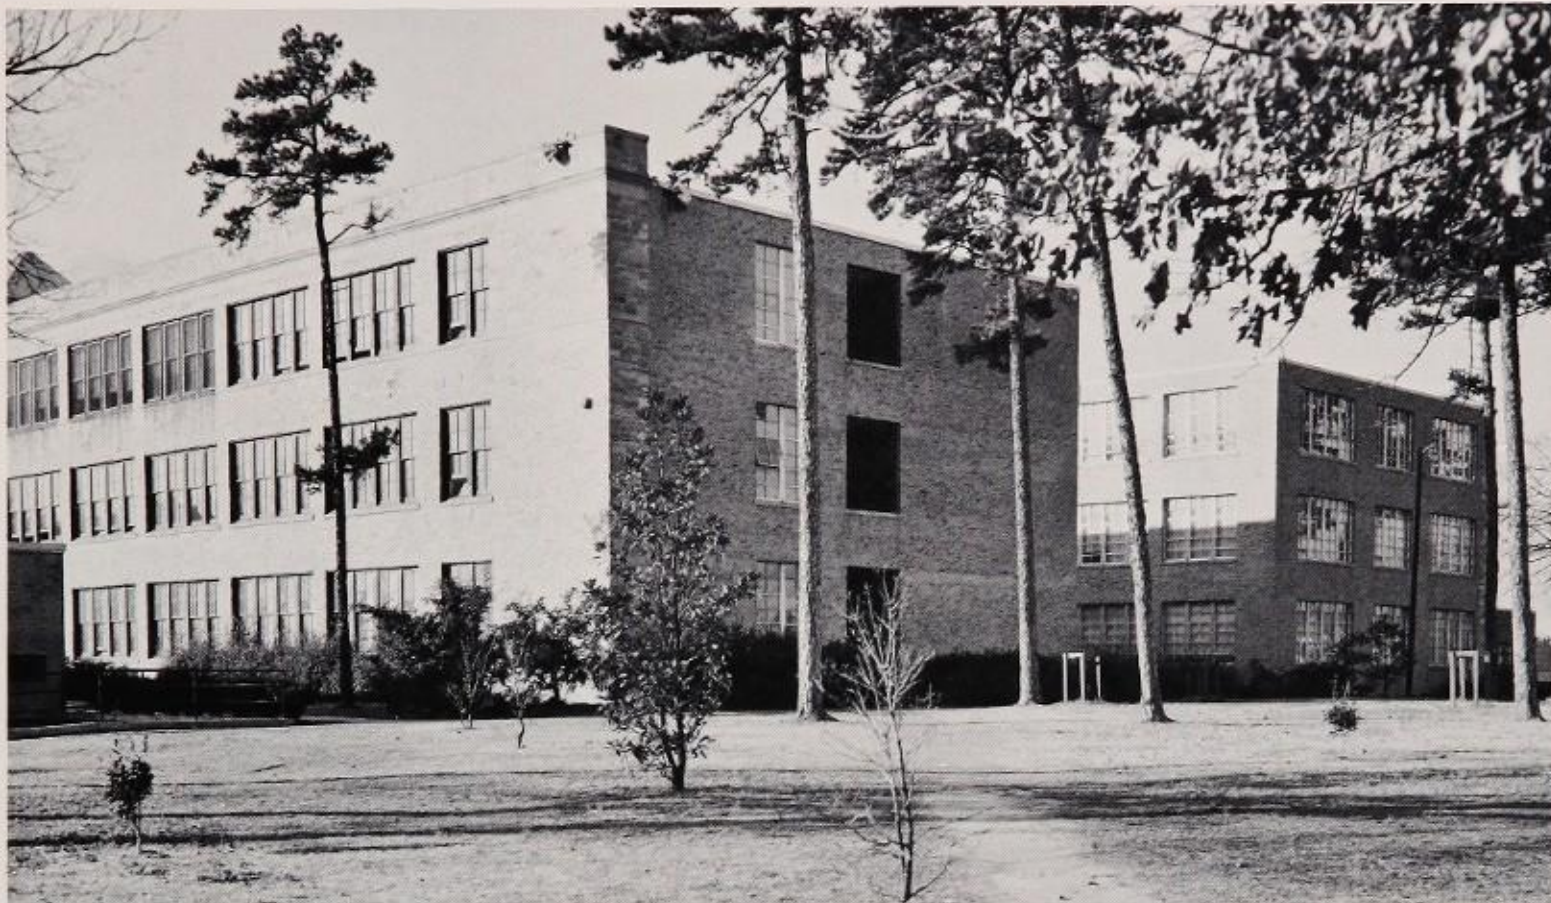

For the theme of the LATIPAC—1965, we have chosen the famous lines of Alfred, Lord Tennyson: "I am a part of all that I have met; yet all experience is an arch wherethrough gleams that untraveled world whose margin fades forever and forever when I move." Surely through the separate paths that each of us has taken through these days at Broughton, we have gathered to us memories that are our very own, for it is along these paths that we have begun to see ourselves for the first time.

And in this realization each Broughton student sees that he is a culmination of every book that he has ever read, every class or school that he has attended, and every office that he may have held. Yet the conditions are unique with each one, therefore he is a complete individual totally unlike anyone else. And so, for the LATIPAC—1965, we have chosen this theme, in hopes of presenting a true and lasting expression of the year at Broughton, one that will bring different, yet special remembrances to each and every one.

In Memoriam

Death is but crossing the world, as friends do the seas; they live in one another still. . . . Realizing this, we set about to create a visible memorial to those no longer with us by landscaping an area of the school grounds.

*No man is an island entire of itself
Each man is a piece of the continent, a part of the main;
If a clod be washed away by the sea
Europe is the less, as well as if a promontory were
Or as if a manor of thy friend or of thine own were.
Any man's death diminishes me, because I am involved
With mankind; And, therefore, never send to know for whom the bell tolls:
It tolls for thee.*

As We Know It Best

A Part of

*And so the gates opened once more,
and we entered the Broughton world. . . .*

Being a "number" became a reality as IBM joined the teaching staff. . . .

The library was our way of life (or way of death!). . . .

*Remember the student teachers?
(Could we forget?!)*

All of Us

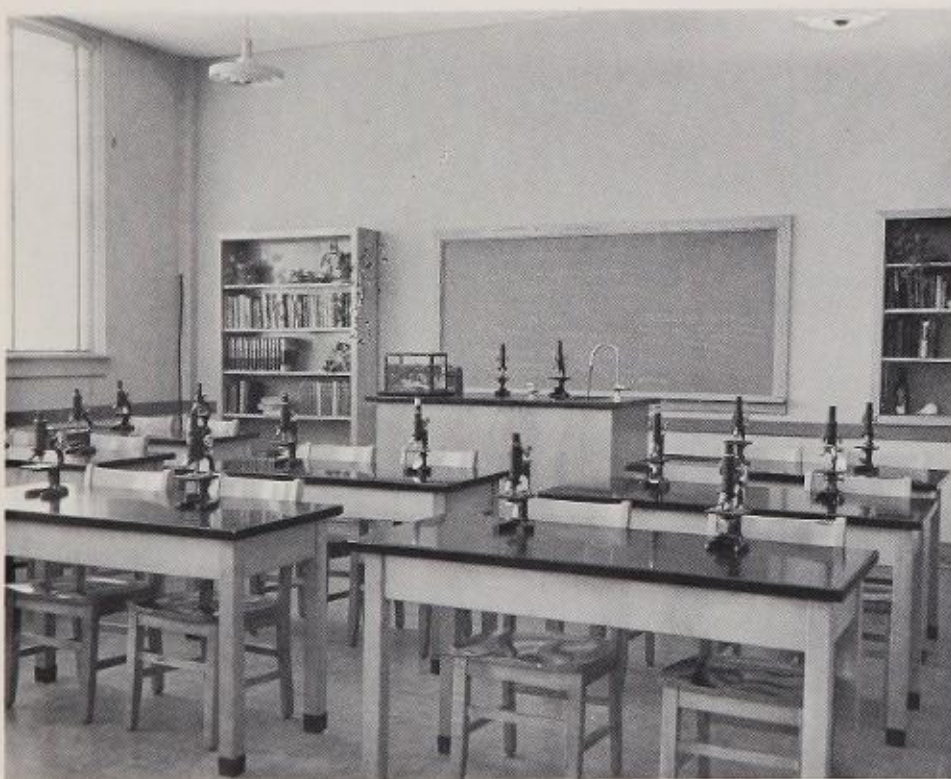

The language of listening became an art. . . .

Youthful emotion (and the urge for an A) crystallized into beauty's form. . . .

This is exactly what I think of everytime I see or hear of you. Always remain this way, Sara, you are a rare human being.
James Kenyon

Happiness was being able to focus a microscope and actually see something. . . .

Typing was a test of coordination and control (of temper!)

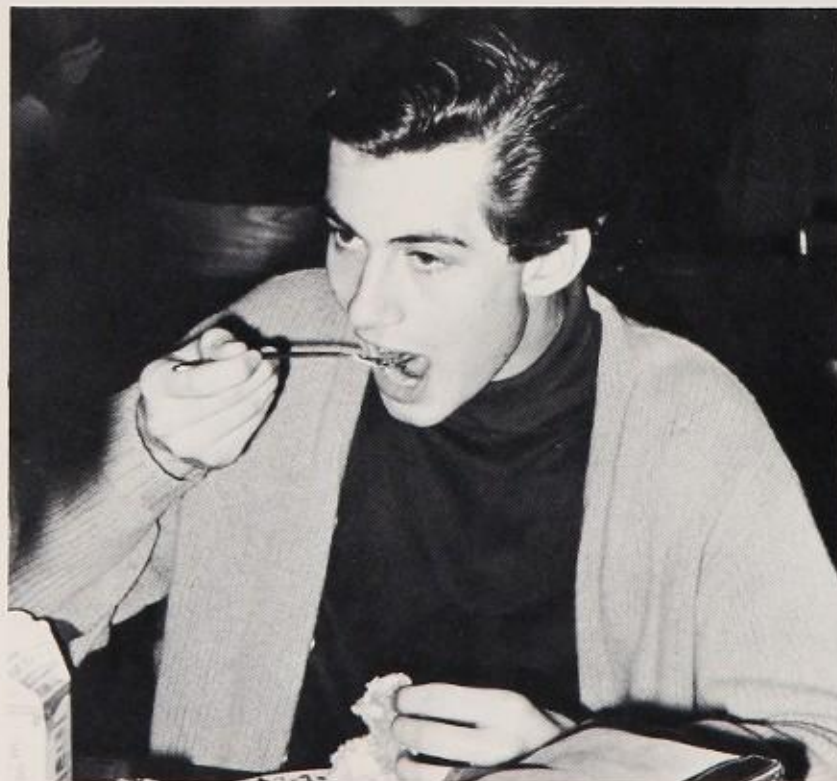

A touch of home. . .

No other time but Halloween!

And then there was lunch. . .

Unique was the day; Fair was the occasion; uncanny were the clothes; teddy bears were the talk. . .

Books: What we carried, what we cursed, what we crammed; but somehow amid the struggle, emerging as our comrades. . . .

The click of the ignition, the gear grinding, terror-stricken expressions on the faces of "normal" motorists and or pedestrians--All these were Drivers Ed Summer souvenirs.

The times were good; the times were bad; but whatever the times, there was always a class to get to on time. . . .

Just a building by the name of Broughton—yet so much more.

Sara,
 I can't think of anything to say except this - if you really work at it and I mean sincerely, and if you make God your companion, your guide, your strength you cannot help but find happiness - I'm pulling for you I'm sure you know that. (as is it, roommate?!!)
 Don't forget your fellow roommate & all those discussions we had at the beach & you can't help but remember the Phi-Kai-Ottes, in general!
 You're an awfully attractive & intelligent girl - don't you forget it

Love,
 Susan Harrison

With deep affection, and with fond remembrance

We think of days and years so swiftly flown;

And through our joys and sorrows we still cherish

The lessons you have taught, the seed you've sown.

We won't forget the many things you've taught us . . .

Your faithfulness, the goodness of your heart.

You gave yourself, unselfishly, devotedly

The truths divine, endeavoring to impart.

And so with grateful hearts we would say, "Thank you,"

For all you've done, and what you yet will do.

May God's rich blessings always rest upon you;

And all the good you've done come back to you.

Sara,

I'm so glad I got to know you on this beach trip. all though we haven't discussed as much as I wanted to, you've won my respect and friendship. Life can be good to you, if you so desire.

Sincerely,

Rachel

The candle burned so quickly; three years of flame now wax, perfumed with memories, hardened with wisdom. The projects, the dances, the disappointments, College Boards, decisions to make, lifetimes to mold—all of it has been an incredible journey; incredible that it should ever end. And yet it is ended. But the memories are long abiding; barbecue that tasted of success, scholarship and athletic honors that distinguished our class, feeling strange knowing it was the 'last' Broughton Homecoming, riding by Broughton at night and seeing it so stately and quiet, cherishing friendships and wondering, Where will we all be next year?, the hush of the crowd as the National Anthem was played at the last home basketball game, the fun of the Student-Faculty Olympics, watching the reigns of Broughton leadership shift, the Senior Prom and thereafter!, exams, the special sound of Class of '65. And there was so much more. Strange, the feeling of watching Broughton slip away into the darkness; yet knowing a new dawn is come. . . .

Sometimes a person doesn't know what she does for others. You have said things, short little things! that made a whole satty day switch over to a beautiful one for me. Thanks you for being such a wonderful part of

Juniors

It is a year that moves—the junior year; a year of gathering wind and billowing sail; a year that says, “Watch out. Time is on the wing.” Deeper, wider eyes explore uncharted seas; no more the innocent, yet not quite the wise. Being a junior is riding the waves and feeling the under-toe pulling persistently out to sea. It is feeling the mold of maturity taking shape, an Easter egg hunt of ideas, of discovery; it is knowing, but questioning. The junior builds a fire of life, fuels it with individuality, fans it with love. A junior is a phenomenon of blooming potential, of vibrant hopes and just as vibrant fears; it is the agony of being in-between yet the security of being neither first nor last. Words cannot express everything, nor eyes see all. Time holds back the tide and murmurs, “Your day will come.” Spellbound, the junior rides his wave, fans his fires, and hopefully waits. . . .

And so it begins . . . One year stands ajar, watching, waiting. Within, adventure smiles invitingly, knowledge stirs impatiently, experience figits longingly. All lies in readiness; all awaits the Sophomore. The world is somehow different as a sophomore. Here is another sphere; a canvas of unillustrated opportunity, a giant cameo of uncarved enthusiasm, a timeless page of unwritten destiny. Here is a rainbow splashed with shades of conflict and disillusion, happiness and hopes, confusing halls and new faces; a rainbow glistening with the Purple and Gold promise of tomorrow. Here is a Broughton, high schooling and carefully tooling the reluctant Sophomore. In this special world of seeking and searching, the password is Right Now; the rules are eager smiles and spirited excitement, yet anxious cries and serious reflection. Broughton beckons the Sophomore to take a deep, filling drink from the well of this one year, to sip the tart experiment of time and circumstance. From this Well, Tomorrow will ripple forward. . . .

Dear Sara,
What can you say to a girl with such a beautiful character? You have so much inside you, if you wouldn't hold back so much. You wouldn't be unbeatable. Knowing you has been an enriching experience that I will never forget.
I hope you achieve the joy and luck you deserve.
Love,
Dad

Organizations

The rising gavel—calling to order ecstatic hopes, unbeaten paths, novel ideas, eager faces, willing minds; calling to order the Broughton Dream. And as the gavel falls, so falls in place Broughton's Organizations. They are the molds in which leaders take shape; they are responsibilities draped in a cloak of necessity lined with the warm velvet of friendship and service. Broughton's Organizations speak in exuberant smiles of accomplishment, in the precision of assemblies, in the perspiration of tired muscles working on a project, in the determination of a hard-working group to meet the deadline, in the 'Thank you' of a smile. They are burning midnight "candles," faltering decisions, success and failure. They are the cake we have, and even so, eat; and they are quiet times when a boy pauses to look back on an era he served. We have been a part of this era, but these Organizations have no such era. On and on they go, reflecting the spirit of Broughton. . . .

The main purpose of the Student Council is to stimulate leadership and school spirit. Through the various committees of the Council, every student has an opportunity to serve Broughton. The Council, which is composed of a governing body, home-room representatives and committee chairmen, is advised by Mr. Holyfield. After each monthly meeting, all students are informed of the business discussed.

The special projects of the Student Council are many and varied. The most notable of these is the Support Operation Spirit campaign, designed to instigate school spirit and good sportsmanship. Other projects included this year were Homecoming and the Homecoming Dance, the Snowball, the Student-Faculty Olympics, and several out of town bus trips to athletic events.

Marshals

Each year at Broughton, sixteen students are elected to serve as marshals. Of the sixteen, eight are seniors, four are juniors, and four are sophomores. All must maintain a minimum average of 82.5. Kate Johnson served as head marshal for the 1964-1965 school year, with Mr. Holyfield as advisor.

The marshals are an important part of our assemblies and class meetings. Their duties also demand participation at graduation services as well as special programs performed by the Dramatics and Music Departments.

Under the sponsorship of the Raleigh Kiwanis Club, the Key Club strives to develop initiative and leadership, to provide experience in living and working together, to serve the school and community, to prepare for useful citizenship, and to set and follow high ideals. The club provides money for a scholarship awarded at the end of the school term. Under the leadership of Mr. Cherry, the 25 members also operated a concession stand at the Basketball games, and performed on the stage at the Kiwanis Minstrel. In addition to these activities the Key Club also assisted in civic fund-raising projects throughout the year.

Latipac

MARTHA BRUCE HUGHES: Editor

MISS PASCHAL: Advisor

To present a realistic and lasting picture of the year at Broughton—through the LATIPAC—has been the purpose of the journalism classes this year. It has been a year filled with deadlines, copy or no copy, unidentified pictures, and never enough ads! Yet with the help of the interest classes, as well as the seventh period core class, we managed somehow to stay on top. There was not all work and no play however, for many journalism students combined both in attending the annual Press Convention at Columbia University in March.

It is hard to believe that all of the rush is over, and that the presses out at Edwards & Broughton have printed the last copy—yet here it is: the LATIPAC 1965.

Hayes Kennedy, Gene Duncan, Debby Henderson, and Gene Knight pick out pictures to be used in the LATIPAC.

Sue Miller, Shirley Laws, and Elaine Smith get the Senior Section ready to go to press.

Bryan Green, Helen Jenrette, and Betsy Gribble review the Ad Chart before going out to various places of business.

Bruce Straughan, Pete Maravich, Donna Crisp, and Hank Thompson on their way out to Edwards and Broughton.

Sue Miller and Helen Buchanan.

Hi-Times

HELEN BUCHANAN: Editor

SUE MILLER: Business Manager

The Hi-Times, published nine times this year by the journalism classes, was in the planning stages before the end of school last spring. Then in August staff members and other enthusiasts converged in 114 to organize something new—a special “Operation Spirit” issue that was given to all of us on that first September 3.

Members of the journalism classes went many times to solicit and collect for ads; and they went to the News and Observer and Raleigh Times offices, the State College print shop, and of course, Edwards and Broughton. This year in the Hi-Times we saw a front page layout change, new columns and cartoons, a new trend in editorials and features. We read about our plays and concerts, our football and basketball games and track meets, our assemblies and dances, our students and teachers, who were honored, our clubs and committees, our class projects, our Broughton 1964-65.

Sarah Elizabeth White, Geanie Morgan, and Becky Aldridge look over school papers received through the Hi-Times exchange program.

Jack Phillips, Bill Brooks, and Jule Mann check over ads received for the paper.

Janey Jones, Nancy Kenyon, and Sue Burroughs proofread copy they have written for the Hi-Times.

Tommy Hobbs, Judy Hobby, and Donna Hailey search through various books for new ideas for the paper and the annual.

Winged Words, Broughton's literary club, was founded to encourage creative and expository writing and to help develop constructive critical judgment among Broughton students.

Mary Forest, a Broughton student, organized the club in the year 1951-52.

Each Wednesday the twenty members of Winged Words meet to discuss manuscripts submitted anonymously by Broughton students. Constructive criticism of the submitted poems, essays, and stories, is based on such criteria as style, theme, and originality. The selected works and illustrations are published in the spring each year.

The National Forensic League, composed of twenty-five members, met the first and third Thursday of each month.

To give students experience in public speaking and debating is the purpose of the National Forensic League. To achieve this purpose, the club participates in numerous interscholastic debates in this area. Topics of debate include those of current interests to students and National High School Debate Topics.

The club attended the 1964-65 N. F. L. Congress. N. F. L. members also participated in local Optimist, American Legion, and Oddfellows contests.

The Senior Hi-Y is a service organization composed of 35 boys who seek to create, maintain, and extend throughout the home, school, and community high standards of Christian character. During the year the club met twice a month at the YMCA with Mr. Parker, their advisor. These boys sold the 1964-1965 edition of the Hi-Y Directory for their money making project. For the club service project, the Senior Hi-Y sponsored a scholarship fund for a senior student.

Mizpah Devotional

The thirty-one members of the Broughton Devotional Club meet Monday, Wednesday, and Friday mornings at 8:25. The purpose of the club is to draw members closer to God, to establish a better understanding and a closer union among different faiths, and to render service to the school and community. Helping a needy family during the Christmas seasons is an annual project. Last goodbyes always seem more fun for the members at the Club picnic each year.

To grow in knowledge and love of God, to grow in relation with other people, to grow as a person are all purposes of the Y-Teens. Throughout the year bake-sales, trips, Christmas services, Potato-Chip Sale, fashion shows have kept the Y-Teens an active group.

Mrs. Mark Boone, director of Y-Teens, has helped the interclub council plan for the World Fellowship Booth, adoption of foster children, the World Fellowship Trip to Washington, and the Hanging of the Greens at Christmas.

This year the Y-Teens are giving a $150 scholarship to a deserving Y-Teen.

No Y-Teen member will forget the knitting lessons, meetings at the school and the Y.W.C.A., shopping for the adopted child, and (especially baking cookies for the summer bake-sales).

Vocational Industrial Club

The 1965 Broughton Vocational Industrial Club under the supervision of Mr. Patten had a very active year. The club wholeheartedly supported various school and community projects while following its purpose of growing in honesty, loyalty, dependability and knowledge.

The twenty-five members of the 1965 Broughton V.I.C. met once a month for a dinner meeting. In March, the V.I.C. attended a convention in Wilmington. Another of its many activities was the V.I.C. Eastern District Meeting at Cary. Other events included the employer-employee banquet.

The 68 members of the F.T.A. engage in a variety of activities to encourage young people to cultivate in themselves the qualities of personality and character which are the foundations of successful teaching. The club traditionally looks forward to the month of March, when Observation Day occurs, and they visit different classrooms throughout the Raleigh school system. For the first time this year, the F.T.A. has selected various deserving teachers as the Teacher of the Month and have provided cookies during exams in the Teacher's lounge.

Under the leadership of Mrs. Coates, the meetings were held twice a month with programs including films and speakers. The highlight of the year was the annual Mother-Daughter banquet.

The purpose of the Library Club, composed of forty-five selected members, is to help students and teachers find books and other materials as fast as possible. At its meetings, the third Monday of each month, the club learned more than mere book shelving; speakers who work with books and writers of books gave the club an inside story of working with books.

During the year the Library had a banquet. They were host for the Library Convention District meeting in Raleigh, and attended the State Convention in Durham.

The thirty-five selected members of the Science Club meet on the first and third Tuesdays of each month. The purpose of the organization is sixfold: to learn to perfect skills in science; to increase knowledge of science; to provide learning fitted to the interests and abilities of the individual; to increase enthusiasm in technique; to render service to the community and nation; and to further the program of Science Clubs of America.

This year, the club's programs were centered around the theme "Science Today" beginning with the development of science in the past and its promise for the future. The theme was explored through frequent lectures by prominent scientists and scholars and through field trips.

The Red Cross Council, in its fourth year of service, met every fourth Thursday with Miss Coffey to plan and promote youth volunteer service for the school and community. At the beginning of the year, each class elected a representative to the council. In addition, money was collected to enroll every homeroom in the Red Cross and each homeroom which contributed $1 per 30 students received a subscription to the Red Cross Journal.

The High School Chest program, and Water Safety Demonstration were part of the club's activities for the year. In December, the Red Cross wrapped packages for Veterans at the chapter house.

Due to the diligence of a senior girl, Susan Johnson, Broughton had a Health Careers Club this year for the first time. The objectives of this organization are to acquaint interested students with various health careers and to acquaint them with the opportunities available for each career, including training, institutions, and possibilities for financial aid.

The members met on the second and fourth Thursdays of every month where they saw a film or had a speaker. The Rex Hospital Guild sponsored this club. For its service project the members helped in the collection for the March of Dimes.

Twice each year, the Honor Society inducts those juniors and seniors who have excelled in leadership, scholarship, character, and service. The induction takes place in an impressive, school-wide assembly.

The purpose of the Honor Society is not only to honor those students possessing high qualities of scholarship, leadership, service, and character, but to encourage these qualities in others.

One of the highlights of the activities of the Honor Society this year was the Broughton-Enloe Basketball game, when Broughton defeated the Enloe group in a half time battle. For the yearly social, this group had a picnic in the late spring.

BROUGHTON HONOR SOCIETY INDUCTEES—New members of the National Honor Society at Broughton High, who were inducted on March 12 are Robin Hunt, Bennett Little, Dorcas Grigg, Carolyn Cobb, Cember Holden, Margo Brinkley, Jo Anne Porter, Paulette Dyson, Rebecca Hosley, Jim Valone, Bruce Darling, Bill Suttles, Becky Aldredge, Winnifred Rosenthal, Bill Berry, Bobby Reveley, Frank Griffin, Robin Cauthen, Gus Anderson, Judy Rybka and Carrie Rouse.

In 1949, through the financing of the Student Council, the Service Club was organized for the purpose of recognizing those students who had given outstanding and unselfish service to Broughton. Any student or teacher may nominate candidates for membership who, if approved by the entire club, receive the highest non-scholastic honor bestowed on a Broughton student.

At the end of the year the club selected two members, a boy and a girl, to receive trophies recognizing their outstanding service to the school. Traditionally, the Service Club holds a picnic in April.

Little Theatre

The Broughton Little Theater provides delightful entertainment for both its members and the public. The forty members of the club are selected and are all interested in the dramatic arts as well as improving posture, poise, voice, and character. The club, which meets on the third Thursday of each month, is under the direction of Mrs. Wooten.

The major project of the fall was the production of Anastasia. In the spring, the club produced Little Abner and attended a dramatics festival.

At the end of each school year, The Adams Trophy is awarded to an outstanding member of the club in recognition of his high achievements in the dramatic arts. Little Theater members may also be inducted into the Golden Masquers, the club's honorary society.

To uphold and encourage the standard of good sportsmanship, to be of service to school and community, to promote school spirit, and to create fellowship among varsity athletes are the purposes of the Monogram Club. The club is open to all the boys that have earned a varsity letter.

During the Christmas season this organization supervised the collection of food, clothing, and presents for needy families. They also provided baskets of food for all the maids and janitors. Coach Walker was advisor to the 63 members who met once a month. The boys also ushered at our home games.

Broughton's Vocal Ensemble is composed of 32 music students who perform throughout the year, under the guidance of Mrs. Freeman, for the school, for the public, and for various civic organizations.

This year the Ensemble participated in all of the programs presented by the Advanced Mixed Chorus along with several others. In the fall they sang for the District Library Convention held at Broughton, and in January for the North Carolina Soil Science Convention. Also, they sang for the Sir Walter Lion's Club, for the Woman-of-the-Year banquet, and were presented by the Musical Arts Society in public concert on February 21.

At Broughton the Ensemble furnished music for the fall and spring inductions of the National Honor Society.

In the spring the Ensemble ended its active year with participation in the North Carolina Choral Festival in Greensboro.

The Combined Mixed Chorus participated in many programs during the year. Its biggest event in the fall was a concert in Greensboro on November 15. This program premiered the singing of "God's Grandeur," written for the Chorus and Orchestra by David Maves, the Ford Foundation composer-in-residence sent to Raleigh. Besides this appearance, the Chorus gave several performances for the school: at Thanksgiving, at Christmas, and at Easter.

In addition, the Chorus participated, 170 strong, in the District Music Contest in Durham on March 19 and also composed the choir for the Baccalaureate Service for seniors in May.

All of the Chorus members are core music students who practice each day under the direction of Mrs. Freeman.

Sports

True meaning of sportsmanship. . . . It is like a pendulum swinging back and forth, swinging toward good luck or misfortune, swinging toward victory or defeat . . . swinging with it, the hopes of Broughton.

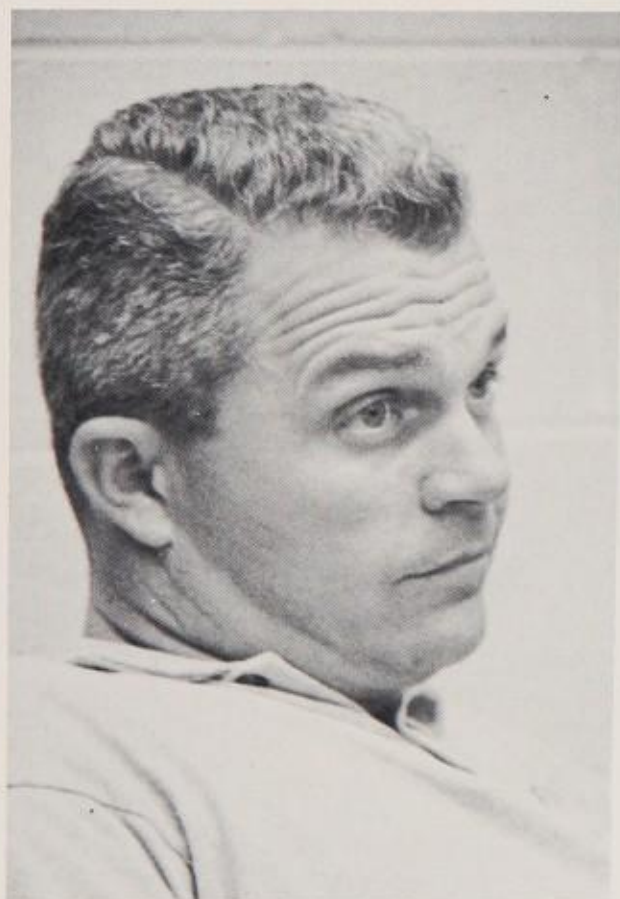

The crowd. Watching. Electrocuted with intensity. The caps are out there. Fighting, fighting for Broughton. "Go Caps, Go Caps, go, go, gooo!" Hearts live and die. Hopes leap and plunge. It's all in the game, they say. "Cheer Broughton High School, Broughton must win, Fight to the finish, never given in. . . ." But it is more than that. It is a group of boys who fuse their minds and talents in a united effort to do their best. "We're from Broughton, couldn't be prouder. . . ." Spirit sparkles from excited eyes, screams from hoarse voices, and suddenly there is a purpose for it all, a reason for uncontrollable tears when the score goes the wrong way. Athletics is but one phase of the whole, yet it complements the others in its distinction.

Cheerleaders

*WHO YA GONNA YELL FOR?
BROUGH-TON HIGH SCHOOL*

And for Broughton High School the 1964-1965 cheerleaders did yell!

Tryouts were held on a competitive basis in the early spring last year with each girl doing two cheers of her choice. The girls were required to have at least an 82.5 average. Those chosen were Kate Johnson, Kay Lumsden, Virginia Byrum, and Barbara Wall from the senior class; Georgette Kahdy, Chan Poyner, and Jill Thurlow from the junior class; and Vickie Gorrell and Julie Marshall from the sophomore class. Kay Lumsden was elected head cheerleader and Mrs. Sandy Baker served as advisor.

The group began its practice the last week in August, going to Long Beach to work on old cheers and learn new ones. Throughout the school year the girls also practiced every Thursday after school.

Despite the fact that the Caps did not have a winning season, the cheerleaders were always present to promote and maintain school spirit, enthusiasm and good sportsmanship.

NON-CONFERENCE

In non-conference play, Broughton played four games. They won over Grimsley, and East Mecklenburg and lost to Garinger and Grimsley.

It was after the second game with Grimsley coach McLean said "Pete Maravich proved tonight he's the complete basketball player." At this time Pete had scored 100 points in three ball games.

CONFERENCE

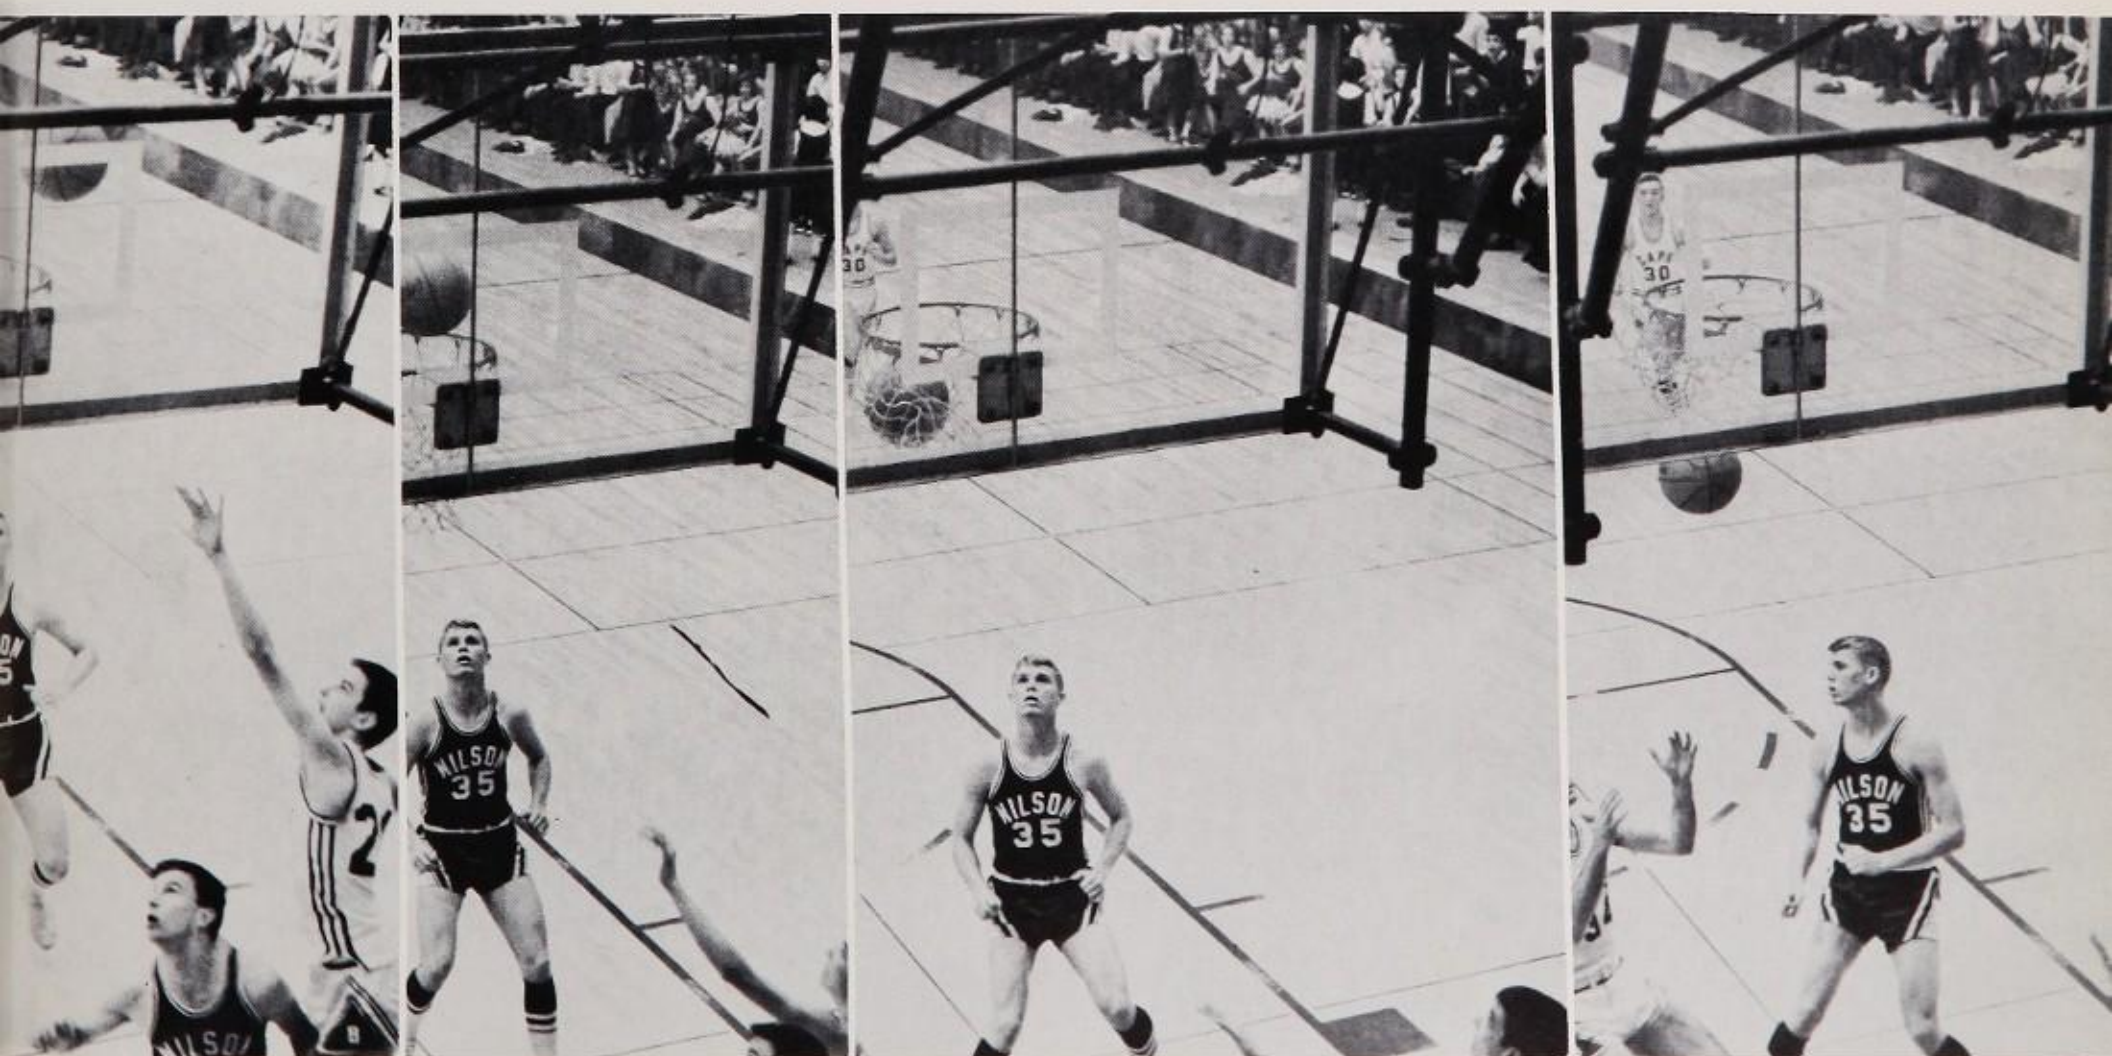

One new team, Enloe of Raleigh, was added to the Conference schedule. Broughton won one and Enloe the other. During the season Broughton had the satisfaction of winning over Enloe, Burlington, Goldsboro, Wilmington, and Durham. They never made it against Rocky Mount and Fayetteville the top two teams of the conference.

No other team had a Pete Maravich. In spite of his fantastic scoring ability, Broughton was not on top in conference play.

In conference playoffs Broughton's hopes for vengeance were sparked by a win over Wilmington. But then there were losses to Fayetteville and Rocky Mount. The final standing in Eastern 4A put Broughton in fifth place.

"There's bound to be a better way!"

Dear Sara,

I have signed on this page because your friendship has been a feature in my life. I can't say "parting is such sweet sorrow" because I refuse to part with you. Our friendship has made Broughton and Phi-Kai-Ettes perfect. Without you the memories would not be so fond and the love so deep.

You should always be proud of yourself because your character Features and courage are of the highest quality. Because of people like you, the American ideal will always live.

The features of Broughton life are many, are much. Beauty is a threshold of occasion, more than physical beauty, but "reflecting qualities that linger not just by sight but by acquaintance." Truly there is magic in the rustle of a gown, in the eyes of a girl who mirrors the beauty and honor of Broughton. There is magic, too, in the feature of achieving together, in being a part of rather than apart from something worthwhile, in realizing that there is an education in every moment. Being there to help the float take shape or helping the "Looking Glass" become a reality or a million other activities that shift Broughton into high gear; all are cloaked opportunities looking for clients. Enthusiasm is the bud of features; friendship, the fruit. In every heart, there is a feature, but only the willingness to share it with others can bring it out. And so it is, "Memory does not allow us to choose"; we reach for a shining moment and are pricked by the sharp edge of a Broughton dream. . . .

"Reach high, for stars lie hidden in your soul.
Dream deep, for every dream precedes the goal."

My relationship with you has meant more to me than I can say - words can not say what I feel -

You are one of God's people - May He bless & keep you.

all my love & admiration,
Marie Curie

P.S. Write me & I'll send you a poison sign

Homecoming—1964

Joe Jenkins, chairman of our 1964 Homecoming, sought to prove Friday the thirteenth is not always an unlucky day. His vivacious committee was behind him throughout the entire month of preparations. Suddenly the spirit of the festivities got in to everyone's bloodstream and before Joe could catch his breath, he discovered the entire student body was bending over backward to lend him aid.

Homeroom float chairmen tried to out-do one another with eye-catching float slogans. After choosing a slogan, the dreadful question arose—Where do we get a truck or trailer to put this thing on? After the panic arising from this question was settled, students, as well as teachers, pitched in to make their float the most original and elaborate in the parade. Chicken wire and purple and yellow Kleenex were searched for in every store, house, and alley in town. Twelve o'clock Thursday night arrived with floats only half completed. In desperation, students worked Friday during the day to finish the precious floats by the deadline. Would Friday the thirteenth really be unlucky for the Caps? Would the floats go down Fayetteville Street unfinished? Fortunately luck prevailed. By 3:30 in the afternoon, Mike Jordan, the float chairman, saw 72 lovely, completed floats pull away from the Broughton athletic field and head for Memorial Auditorium. The tension had ceased, and everyone could breathe freely again. It looked like a splendid Homecoming, despite the date.

The Hospitality Committee made and sold miniature purple and gold corsages and the Projects Committee sold Homecoming pennants. During the halftime, the sponsors were brought onto the field in luxurious convertibles. The marching band and the majorettes formed various modes of transportation for the sponsors to step from within to be presented to Broughton students, parents, and past graduates.

Friday the thirteenth drew to a close and everyone departed to his home—tired and ready to dream of Homecoming 1964—one to be long remembered by all.

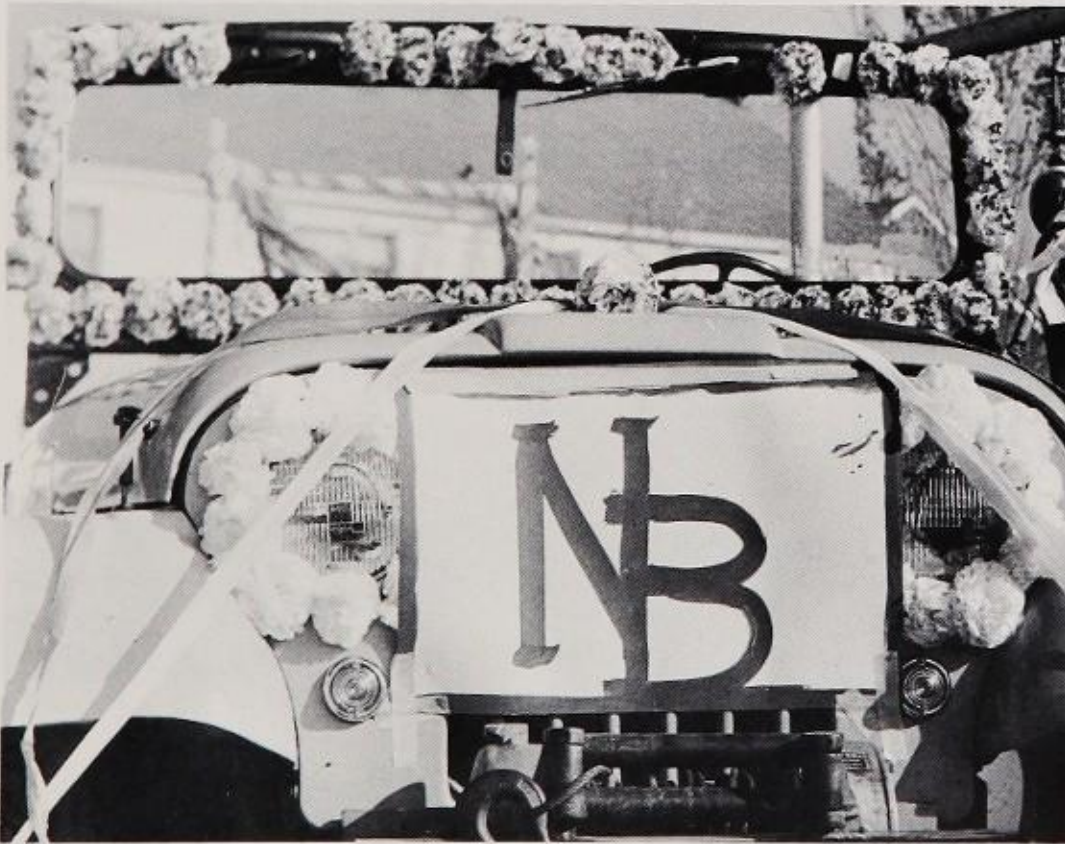

Mr. Holyfield, with Chairmen Joe Jenkins and Mike Jordan.

... Golden flowers for the girls, fragrant with the Broughton Spirit.

... "Rocky Mountain Fever" was our disease and our Broughton, the only cure.

... Senior smiles slowly dissolved, realizing it was the last Broughton homecoming in a year full of lasts.

... And away we went!

Political

And so it was, Hurricane Goldwater. . . .

"Johnson or Goldwater?" This was the big question preying on our minds as we entered the boys gym, transformed into a miniature replica of the actual political convention. The mock election was sponsored by Miss Helen Runyon, American Government, and International Relations teacher.

The entire school was keyed up for the assembly. The campaign commenced with an elaborate poster parade for both candidates. Folk singers, demonstrations, and horns all added to the attraction.

Jule Mann and Bill Carmichael spoke for Johnson, while Gus Anderson and Robert Casey spoke for Goldwater. The qualifications, policies, and traits of the candidates were enumerated. Speeches were interrupted by yelling, clapping, and stamping as students agreed or disagreed.

We left the gym and went to our polls to vote. Most students knew which candidate they felt was most qualified, but others were still pondering over the question. The final count indicated 1,121 votes for Johnson, 894 for Goldwater. The electoral vote favored Johnson 380.5 votes to 157.5. The decision had been made and taken extremely seriously by every student.

And politics the Broughton way. . . .

Rally

... Saw them all and heard the echo of destiny.

... There's a long tall Texan ... the banners, the smiles, the frowns—we

... And suddenly there were Johnson girls as only Broughton could present them.

... Then there was Jule, a Johnson Mann.

... "Ten little Americans standing in a row"—the plot thickened.

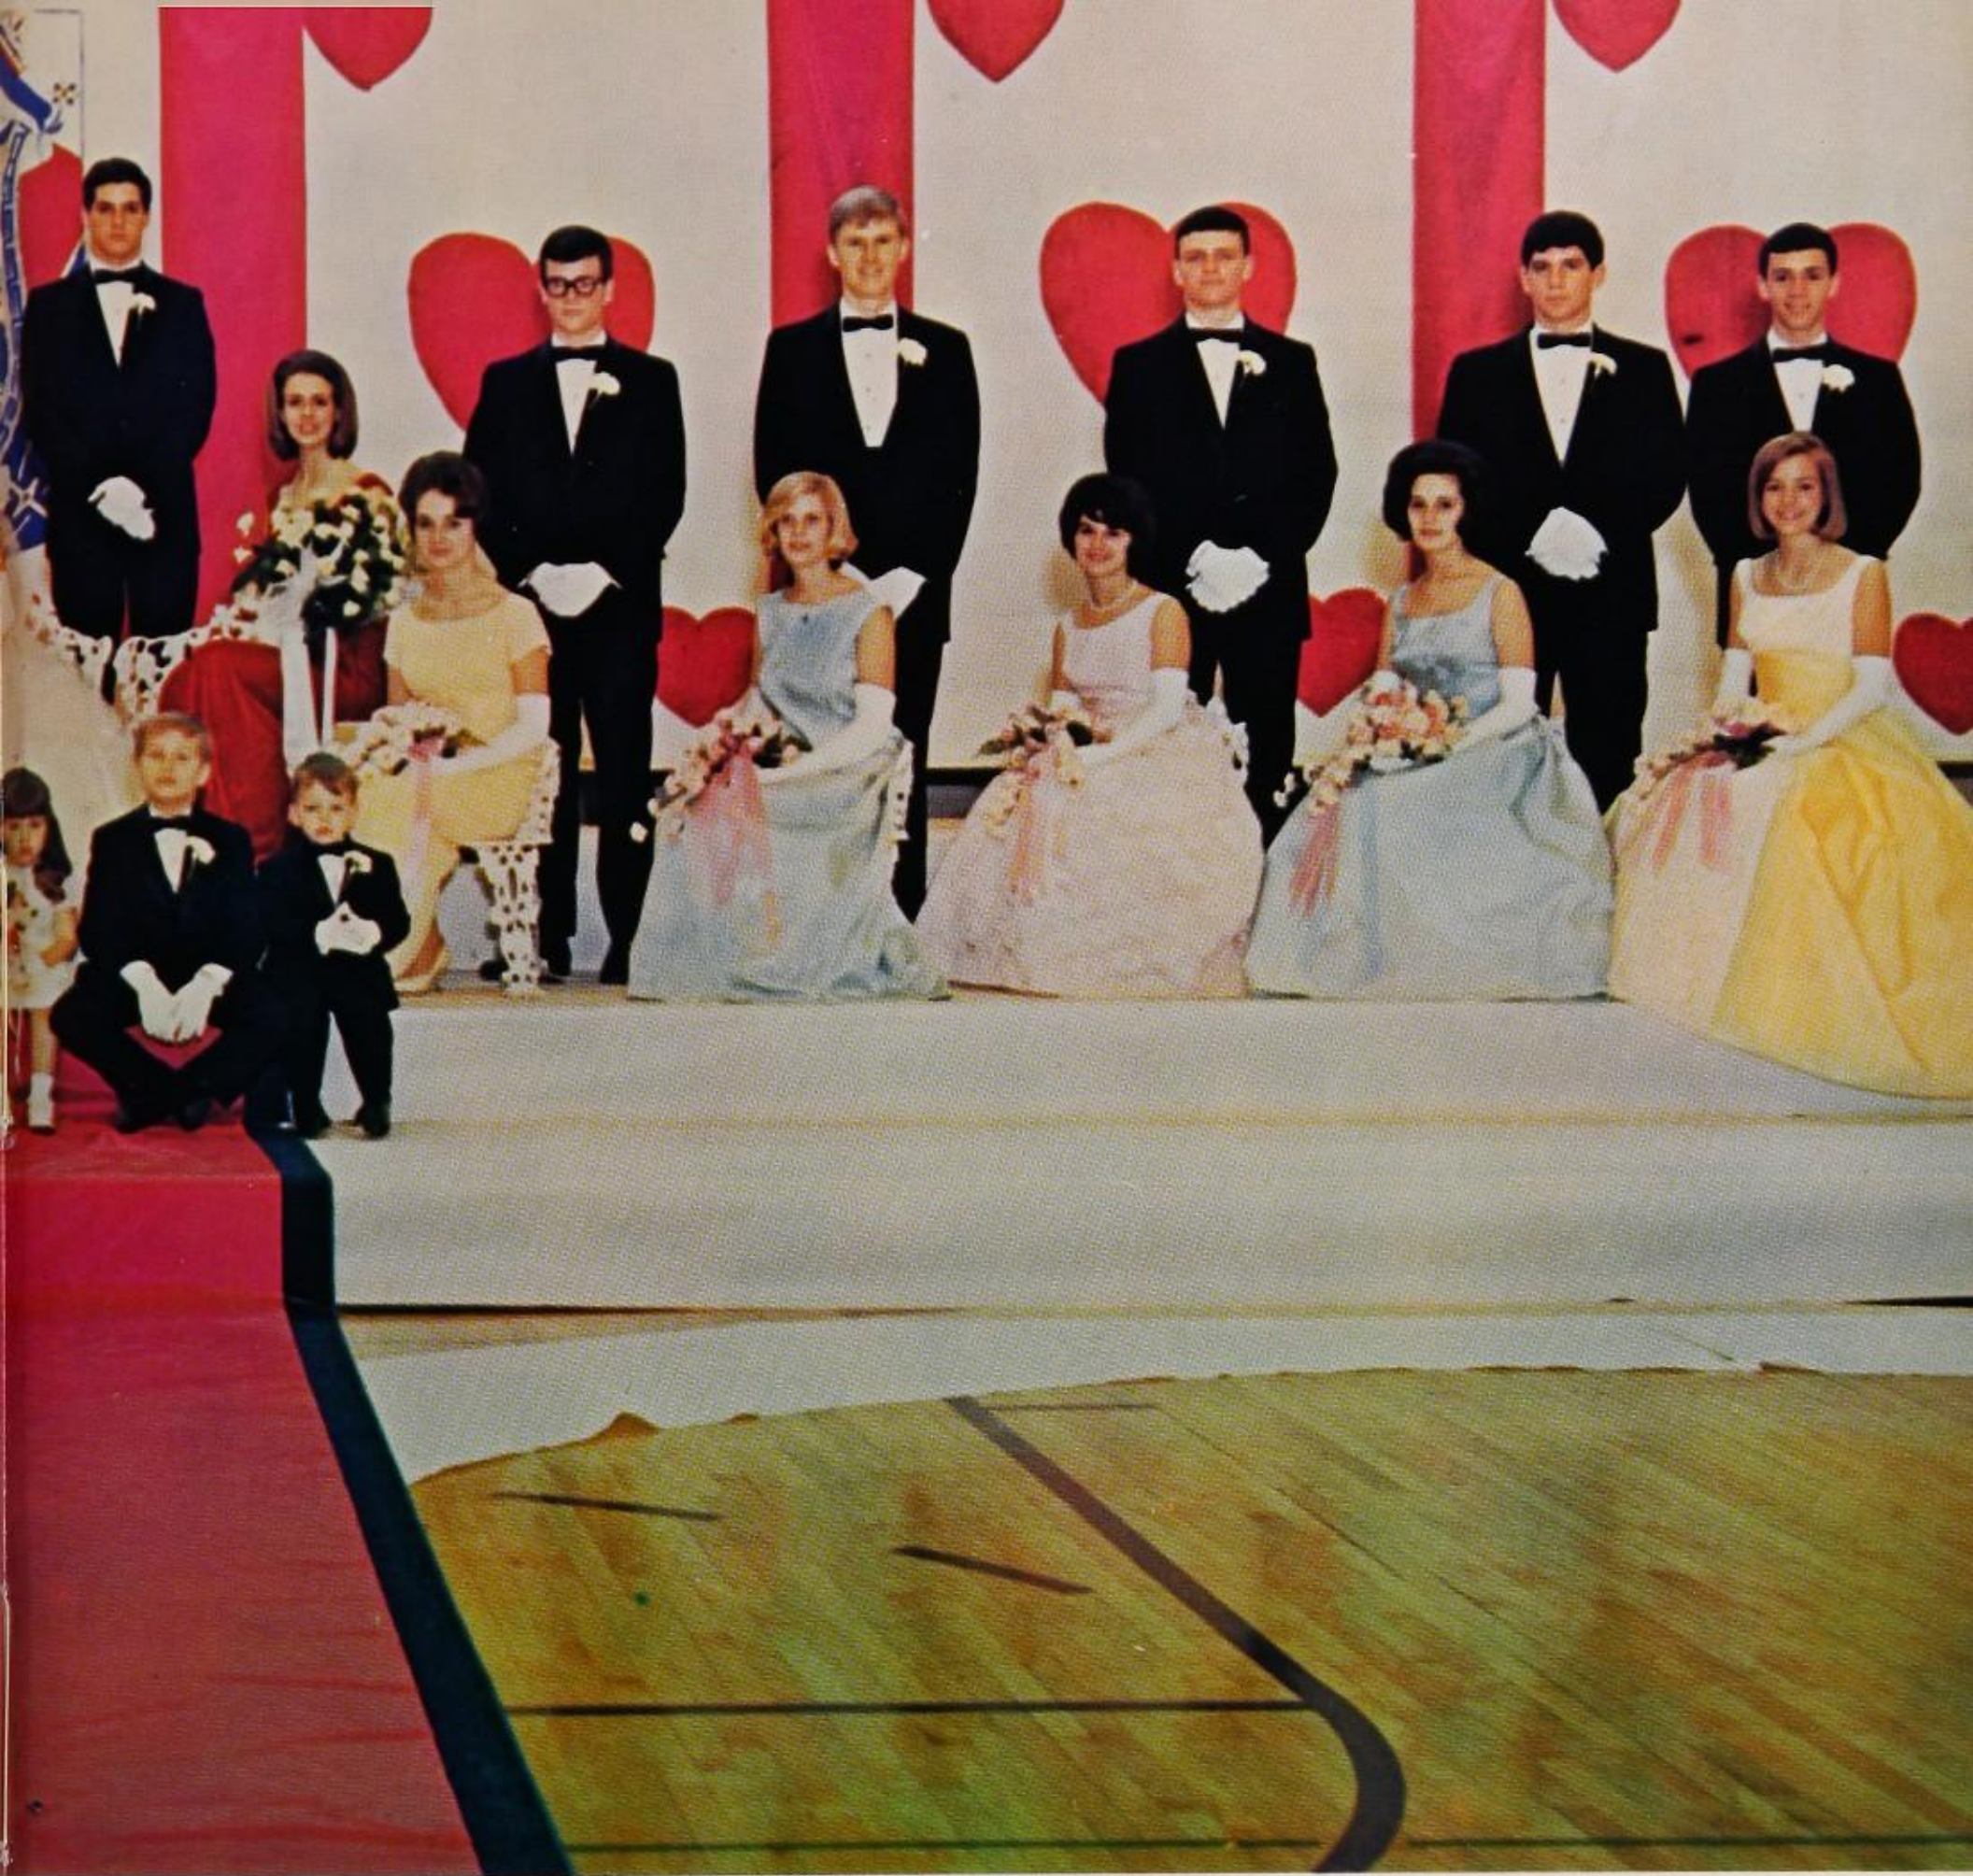

QUEEN OF HEARTS—1965 . . .

*"Fairy tales can come true,
They can happen to you,
If you're young at heart."*

For weeks, "through the Looking Glass" had been only a dream, but suddenly we awoke amidst a wonderland of breath-taking fantasy. By miracles, known but to a few, the gym had been transformed into a palace of splendor, and our classmates had become images of elegance.

For a week the Queen of our Hearts, Kate Johnson, the Maid of Honor, Laura Whitley, and her Court lived in a royal kingdom of their own. On Friday, February 12, they invited us to enter through their looking glass and share with them the splendor of their world. Spellbound, we viewed the flower bedecked archway leading to the exquisite domain of our Queen. Suddenly from within the archway stepped living beauty. The Court and the Maid of Honor, clothed in regal attire, walked slowly down the red carpet to the heart in the center, where each girl met her escort. Together, they completed the promenade to the land of make believe. Then the Queen of Our Hearts, Kate Johnson, appeared with all the grace and charm we had imagined. No one dared to blink an eye for fear of losing sight of her enchantment. The pleasure of her company could be seen on every face as we nodded our approval. Mike Kenfield, president of the senior class, escorted her to her throne where he crowned her our Queen. As Queens should be, Kate was entertained by the finest performers in the land. Donna Crisp opened with a song, followed by an acrobatic dance by Anne Peacock. This jovial affair ended with singer Mary

Jo Moore accompanied by the "Shades Combo."

Suddenly we realized it was time to leave this world for the moment and return to the present. However, the next night everyone was again allowed to enter the looking glass. This time every girl present would be a princess and her escort would be her prince. The "Counts Four Combo" made dancing under an archway available for everyone—and on this night everyone was royally entertained by sensational performers. Thus the night ended for the young at heart—an evening to be long remembered as one of enchantment.

STUDENT FACULTY

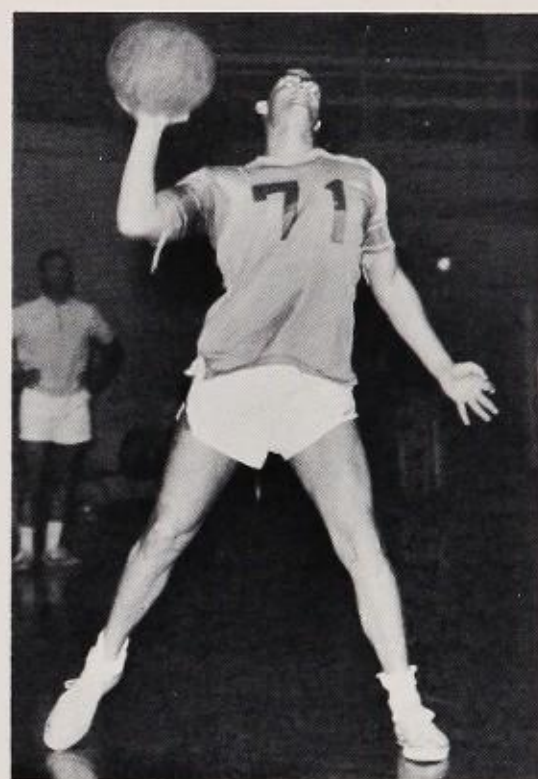

Once again the teachers sought to prove their youth and athletic ability to the students in the Student-Faculty Olympics. Unfortunately, the "elders" were awake until the wee hours of the morning after the games soaking their feet, applying liniment to their joints, and nursing their corns and bunions! The following day, the teachers came dragging to school with stiff backs and aching bones. Generally the "has beens" held up under the strain of the games, but at one critical moment, when the score was tied, the Witches screamed out:

"Rip 'em up, Tear 'em up, Give 'em all F's!"

Highlights of the evening included Miss Walker's "superb" volleyball game, "Tugboat" Steed and "Clean Clothes" Baker flying down the gym on three legs, and the students and faculty in a "football pile up" during the basketball game. Nevertheless, everyone left the Olympics realizing that we have "real champs" for teachers and classmates.

Remember . . .

(This is not said with a forked tongue). You deserved more than you ever received and still do. The benediction you gave Sunday night made me think of all that has happened during the 3 years I have spent studying, playing, laughing and through it all—learning. Tara, this is just the beginning for us—beach—college—and the WORLD!

1964-1965

Carolyn Edwards

September . . . a new beginning, a new outlook on life. We welcomed Muriel, our French exchange student and with heavy hearts said good-by to Kurt and Laura who left us for study abroad.

Politics dominated our life as President and Mrs. Johnson arrived in town. The government classes staged a political rally and mock election that made us all feel responsible for our country's future.

The Honor Society and Service Club symbolized to us the highest achievements at Broughton and it was with pride and deep emotion that we watched our friends increase each club's membership.

Through the efforts of several students a new club was born—the Health Careers Club.

Halloween and a hilarious band half-time show at the football game went hand-in-hand this year.

Homecoming, without rain, swept everyone up in a flurry of excitement and plans. Another first in 1964 was the Homecoming dance which featured the "Fabulous Five."

Seniors worried and fretted about College Board Examinations while juniors and sophomores remained carefree spirits of Broughton.

Anastasia and L'il Abner attracted many of us as did the orchestra and choral ensemble programs.

History was again ours when, in December, the new school flag was unfurled at a pep rally. Proudly, the Purple and Gold colors now fly in the gym.

1964 closed with a proud Broughton tradition—the Snowball Dance.

The old year faded quietly but the new year with its promises of the future arrived midst tin horns and paper hats.

1965 brought the classes together in a unity not previously experienced. From money-making projects to service projects the classes worked together and helped each other. Seniors began to feel more like seniors and graduation became a not-too-distant-reality.

A new sport, wrestling, found enthusiastic fans for itself in 1965. Sports occupied the spotlight most of the year.

Dancing, a perennial favorite, maintained its popularity as the "jerk" and the "dog" joined the ranks of the younger setters.

Honors and outstanding achievements in fields of art, writing, and scholarship won by classmates stimulated pride and honor in school and fellow class members.

A blanket of snow brought a welcome reprieve from homework and studies as we brushed cobwebs off our sleds and waxed the runners in preparation for our surprise holiday.

Early in February, the seniors chose a little boy with an elfin grin for their class mascot.

The annual Student-Faculty Olympics were the funniest ever, especially the tug-of-war.

Raleigh was treated to a new slate of city officials as students took over on Student Government Day.

The Senior Prom . . . climax to three years at Broughton.

Atlantic Beach once again welcomed us on Senior Weekend and no one got any sleep, only sunburn.

Clubs and organizations elected next year's leaders. School was nearing its close.

Class night, the seniors' night, incorporated all our activities, all our memories into a rollicking play.

Graduation . . . not only the end, but also the beginning. Seniors bid good-by; juniors and sophomores grow up.

. . . And the future now becomes the present . . .

Sara,
Knowing you
this year has been a wonderful experience.
We not soon forget the SENIOR PROJECTS - the were great.

Now have a wonderful summer
and may God bless you,
Love,
Trancy Breeden

Afterword

*"For I am a part of all that I have met;
Yet all experience is an arch wherethrough
Gleams that untraveled world whose margin fades
Forever and forever when I move . . ."*

Through the LATIPAC—1965, the journalism classes have attempted to include all of the experiences of the school year here at Broughton. There were times of excitement, sadness, joy, despair, hope, disappointment, and always a time of remembering. We have worked hard to include all of these aspects for, through the year, they have become our very own. Remembering the words of Tennyson, we, too, feel that each is a part of all that he has known here. However, Tennyson does not end with these words, instead he continues, saying that "All experience is an arch wherethrough gleams that untraveled world whose margin fades forever and forever when I move." So then, do not dwell too long, remembering past days, but look to the future and the many things it offers: For the Senior, there is the prospect of entering a "new world" filled with professors, quizzes, fraternities, and sororities; the Junior, after two years of waiting, will, in short time, be able to say that he is the "upperclassman"; and the Sophomore, after having endured a year of "harassment," finally will have that feeling of belonging. And so, this record of the year is left with you in hopes that you, too, will find something in it that will make you stop, and remember, and be glad that you were a part of Broughton in 1964-65.

Before I close, I would like to take just a minute to thank all of those people who gave much of their time in helping to make this annual possible:

All of the interest classes that spent the entire year writing copy and identifying pictures, and especially the seventh period core class that worked constantly drawing layouts and proof-reading copy;

Bruce Straughan, who worked with the Sports Section;

Sue Burroughs, Miriam Friedlander, Helen Jenrette, and Hannah Nicholson, whose flair for writing was put to good use;

Hayes Kennedy and Elaine Smith, who were willing to do many of the "less desirable" jobs, which, nevertheless, had to be done;

Bryan Green, who realizing that it took money to print an annual such as this, sold an overwhelming number of ads;

Burnie Batchelor and Jim Coble, who were always ready to help with not only taking pictures, but having them ready in time to meet the deadlines, even when I was late;

Gene Duncan, our photographer here at school, who produced the impossible when I asked for it;

Mr. Paul Hoch and Jeff Hill from Edwards and Broughton, who turned our tears into smiles when big problems arose;

All of the teachers, who never complained when I was late to class or kept someone else from class to make pictures;

Miss Paschal, who not only taught us Journalism, but taught us the importance of taking responsibility ourselves;

And last, my family and friends, who listened tirelessly to my ideas and plans and offered many invaluable suggestions.

No one can ever know the hours that were spent in creating this annual and working out all of the tiny details, but now that it is all over, I can count this as one of the most enriching experiences of my life. My only regret is that more people could not have worked with me in producing the LATIPAC—1965.

Have a wonderful summer, and may the Good Lord bless and keep you until we meet again.

Martha Bruce Hughes

Sara, I've been really great. I know a wonderful girl like you. At a time when we seem to be leaving all we have ever known, what can be said but good luck and hope God will bless you in all you do. Keep that smile and you will go far.
